The

AUSTRALIAN COMPUTER JOURNAL

VOLUME 21

February 1989 to November 1989

CONTENTS

Contributions

1. February,1989

Abramson, D.A., Ramamohanarao, K. and Ross, M	A scalable cache coherence mechanism using a selectively clearable cache memory	2-12
Briggs, J.R. and Sale A.H.J.	Fast Fourier transform on multiprocessor architectures	13-18
Kim, M.H. and Kwon, Y.R.	SPEX: A method for specifying the dynamics of structured specifications including control information	19-26
Halpin, T.A.	Venn diagrams and SQL queries	27-32
Williams, G.J.	FrameUP: A frames formalism for expert systems	33-40

2. May,1989

Crossley, J.N., Lim, P. and Stuckey, P.	Interface logic programming	49-55
Miller, M. and Seberry, J.	Relative compromise of statistical databases	56-61
Duke, R. and Smith, G.	Temporal logic and Z specifications	62-66
Cottingham, M.S.	Interpolative hidden surface removal method for polyhedra	67-70
Sale, A.H.J.	The architecture of PCM-1	71-78
Beresford-Smith, B. and Schroder, H.	Effective reconfiguration algorithms in fault tolerant mesh-connected networks	79-84

3. August,1989

Sale A.H.J.	The RISC Style of architecture	97-99
Mason K.P. and Hood S.T.	KBESM-A prolog blackboard system	100-107
Simsion G.C.	A structured approach to data modelling	108-117
Watson R.T.	Key issues in information systems management: An Australian perspective - 1988	118-129
Little S.E. and Margetson D.B.	A project-based approach to information systems design for undergraduates	130-138

4. November,1989

Wise M.J.	An implementation of Modules in Prolog	141-150
Hirst S.C.	A program for symbolic regular algebra	151-161

TITLE INDEX

(Titles in italics are for book reviews.)

A Guide to Ingres	95	Computer Languages	162
A Practical Guide for Teachers: Designing Computer Lessonware	41	Computer Vision - A First Course	41
A program for symbolic regular algebra	151-161	Computerized Assistance During the Information Systems Life Cycle	45-6
A project-based approach to information systems design for undergraduates	130-138	Computers and Languages - Theory and Practice	85-6
A Structured Approach to Computer Strategy	46	Data Communication Systems and Their Performances	163-4
A structured approach to data modelling	108-117	Database Security: Status and Prospects	88
Accessing C. Tips from the Experts	139	Design Automation: Automated Full-Customed Layout Using the ULYSSES Design Environment	140
Advances in Computers, Volumes 25, 26, 27	90-1	Dynamics of Clipper	85
Algebraic Theory of Processes	92	Effective reconfiguration algorithms in fault tolerant mesh-connected networks	79-84
An implementation of Modules in Prolog	141-150	Elements of Functional Languages	85
An Introduction to Programming Using Macintosh Pascal	43	Elements of Statistical Computing	89
Annual Review of Computer Science, Volume 3	86-7	Embedded Programming In Ada	88
Australasian Computerised Legal Information Handbook	86	Eurographics 88	162
Building a Secure Computer System	89-90	Fast Algorithms and their Implementation on Specialized Parallel Computers	164
C by Dissection	95-6
Compiler Design and Construction	41
